Relationship Foundations for Puppies and Young'uns Friday 1:00 pm – 5:00 pm $ 135

Head start your puppy partner on the right track. Learn (and teach) the foundation skills taught at Say Yes to create a super star! For puppies 12 weeks to about a year old

Building (and Maintaining!) the Connection Saturday 8:30 am -- 12:30 pm $ 135

Suitable for young dogs, dogs just starting agility or advanced dogs who disconnect on occasion and need a refresher on all of the many foundation skills that make for great performance, this workshop will focus on tightening the connection to enhance teamwork. Lay the foundation to perform as a team in harmony around any agility course, then proof that understanding through a variety of challenges. Learn to be your dog's only distraction!

Far, Far Away Saturday 1:30 pm -- 5:30 pm $ 135

Suitable for dogs competing at the Advanced/Masters level, this session will focus on honing distance skills for accurate, independent performance of any sequence. Exercises will test your dog's understanding and make it better, and will help you to develop handling skills that will ensure clear and consistent communication. Whether you're aiming to improve gamble skills or make the most efficient way around a course, building on distance skills will add great tools to your repertoire. Competing Starters dogs may be considered if space allows.

One Jump (and More!) Sunday 8:30 am -- 12:30 pm $ 135

Introduce your grade schooler to jump exercises for future handling success! Included will be one jump exercises as well as a few favorite young dog grids. This workshop will leave you with a repertoire of amazing exercises on which to further build your handling foundation with minimal equipment, regardless of the size of your practice space.

Closing the Gap Between Training and Trialling Sunday 1:30 am -- 5:30 pm $ 135

Part training workshop, part handling seminar and part mental management tutorial, this unique session is for anyone who has ever said "but he's perfect in training" or "how do I practice THAT when he doesn't do it at home?" or who knows that what they're doing in the quiet of the backyard doesn't translate well to the trial ring. It's all about consistency in setting and maintaining criteria, establishing clear cues and expectations, and ensuring that your dog understands that what matters is who he's with and not where he happens to be running that day. Do you lose the connection when sequences become full courses? Do distractions throw a wrench in your confidence, or your dog's? Do your well-defined criteria fly out the window when there's a Q or placement on the line? It's about us -- not the dog's skills, understanding or competency on equipment...it's about being clear in your communication, your confidence, your positions and your understanding. Build on all of them, and you'll build a better team. Suitable for Advanced/Masters teams. Competing Starters dogs may be considered if space allows.
